Mary Lou De Zeeuw and Mark L. Burwell will be honored as this year's distinguished alumni, and Margaret "Penny" Pennington Swanson will receive the 1992 UW-Stout Alumni Association Service Award at the homecoming brunch, October 10, 1992.

Mary Lou De Zeeuw received her B.S. in Nutrition and Dietetics in 1970 from UW-Stout. Currently, she serves as Chief of the Region VIII Division Program Certification and Eligibility for the U.S. Small Business Administration in Denver, Colorado.

In 1989, Mary Lou returned to Colorado after three years of active duty for special work with the 7th Medical Command in Heidelberg, Germany. Currently she is a lieutenant colonel with the U.S. Army Reserves Medical Specialists Corps.

Actively involved with the Cherry Creek Valley Optimist Club, Mary Lou serves as the Oratorical Contest Chairman as well as the 1992-1993 Secretary Treasurer. She is also a member of the Colorado and Denver Dietetic Association.

When Mary Lou is not working or on duty with the Reserves, she enjoys outdoor activities in the Rocky Mountains with her husband, retired Army Lt. Col. Jose Ramirez.

Mark L. Burwell graduated from UW-Stout in 1973 with a Business

Mary Lou De Zeeuw

Administration degree that carried him into retail operations with H.C. Prange Co. In 1984 he joined Putzer's Menswear and has played an active role in their growth from three to their current ten store operation.

Along with his wife, Kathi, Mark is co-owner of Not Just Coffee!, a gourmet coffee and gift store in Green Bay, WI. The success of this business have given them the aspirations of opening a second store in Oshkosh.

In 1991, Mark received the Small Business Advocate of the Year for Wisconsin. The award is given annually to recognize contributions toward understanding of the importance of small business, providing leadership, voluntary efforts to assist small business, and support of governmental action to help small business.

Since graduation, Mark has continued to be active as a civic and community leader, professional and educational leader, as well as leading an active family life raising two sons with his wife.

Penny Swanson graduated from the Stout Institute in June 1948 with a B.S. in Food and Nutrition. In August 1948, she married Robert Swanson and returned to Menomonie while he finished his bachelor's and master's degrees. Bob became a faculty member before he graduated. Throughout his 38 year tenure at Stout, Penny has taken advantage of the many opportunities through involvement to be a loyal Stout supporter and Menomonie volunteer.

Last year, Penny assisted with research for the book Women At Stout. She hopes to continue to do historical research, and to enjoy their four children and five grandchildren as well as her other hobbies.

"Stout has been a great part of our life and it means a great deal to us," said Penny.

Stout Student Designs New Business System for Foundation and Alumni Office

Hans Eckholm, Beloit, WI, is the designer of the new Stout University Foundation and UW-Stout Alumni Association letterhead and logo. Eckholm, a senior in the Industrial Design program, was a student of John DuFresne's "Graphic Design II: Corporate Identity" course spring semester. DuFresne assisted the Foundation and Alumni Office when it decided to update its current letterhead. He presented the project to his students. Within two weeks, students presented 36 entries for selection by the Foundation and Alumni Office.

Hans Eckholm

"The class offered us a variety of designs, all of them creative and thoughtful," said Patricia Reisinger, Executive Director, UW-Stout Foundation. "It was a difficult choice to choose just one design to represent the Foundation and Alumni Office. Hans' design was most appropriate. It incorporated a historical component with a very current look."

According to Eckholm, "The dual purposes for the design were to identify the location of the Stout University Foundation and Alumni Office and to organize their correspondence. Therefore, the Louis Smith Tainter House was incorporated into the mark."

Also included in the mark are patterns which are found in the exterior stonework on the front of the house.

Located on Stout's north campus, the Louis Smith Tainter (LST) House serves as a welcoming point for alumni and friends of the university. In 1984, the LST House became the official residence of the Foundation and Alumni Office.

"The project was a nice opportunity for students to experience developing a concept, assisting in printing and finally seeing it in actual use," said DuFresne, lecturer, Art & Design department.

Alumni Scholarships and Fellowship Awarded

The UW-Stout Alumni Association awarded three $1000 graduate scholarships and one fellowship at its March Board of Directors meeting. The graduate scholars are planning to continue their education at Stout. James J. Costello, the 1992 Robert S. Swanson Fellowship awardee, will be working on his Ph.D. at The Florida State University.

James J. Costello

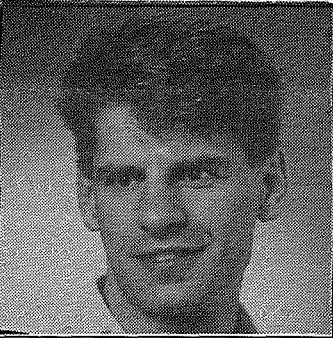

James received his bachelor's and master's degrees in Vocational Rehabilitation from UW-Stout in 1976 and 1981. He has held leadership positions in many professional organizations including the board at the Center for Independent Living in Menomonie. As well as several professional journal articles, he has published two self-paced training manuals. Being an individual with a physical disability, he has had the first-hand experience necessary to educate the publics of the physical accessibility requirements of people with disabilities.

The graduate scholarships were awarded to Kristi S. Lekies, Michael T. Bauer and Wendy Hastings.

Kristi S. Lekies

Kristi has been enrolled as a graduate student in the Master's in Home Economics program with a concentration in Child and Family studies since June 1991. She received her bachelor's degree in social work from UW-Madison in 1986. Employed by the Polk County Department of Social Services in Balsam Lake, WI, she holds the position of foster home coordinator. Her overall goal is to provide services and education that will improve the well-being of individuals and families in our society.

Michael T. Bauer

Michael T. Bauer has been enrolled as a graduate student in Master's in Guidance and Counseling program since August 1991. He received his bachelor's degree in Metalsmithing from UW-Eau Claire. Currently, Michael is employed at the University Counseling Center. After graduation, he hopes to do counseling in a university setting as he enjoys working with students and the variety of campus related issues.

Wendy Hastings

Wendy Hastings is currently enrolled in the graduate program in Guidance and Counseling. After completing two years at UW-Stout, she transferred to UW-River Falls where she graduated with a bachelor's degree in Physical Education K-12 in 1982. For the past nine years she has taught elementary physical education. Besides teaching of physical education, she has also been very involved with coaching. This year she is coaching the UW-Stout Varsity Women's tennis team.

The Nominating Committee of the UW-Stout Alumni Association is seeking nominations for the UW-Stout Alumni Association Board of Directors. Alumni Association members are encouraged to submit their recommendations by completing the form below and returning it to the UW-Stout Alumni Association, P.O. Box 790, Menomonie, WI 54751-0790 by September 21. Nominees should be:

- Willing to serve a 3-year term on the Board of Directors.
- Able to attend two meetings, held in Menomonie, annually.
- Willing to serve on at least one standing committee.

PRESIDENTIAL GREETING

Stout has always been ahead of its time. While politicians are weighing the merit of limiting terms in office, Stout already has incorporated such a limit... And my turn has come. It has been a gratifying experience to serve each of you over the past nine years, and I am especially proud to have served you these past two years as Alumni Association President.

Randall L. Pickering

The past decade has seen unprecedented change at UW-Stout in programs, personnel, facilities, and students. The University said good-bye and thank you to a Chancellor who guided Stout to a first class institution known world round; we welcomed a new Chancellor who has continued to build on that reputation; we celebrated our Centennial; and gained approval to plan the new Manufacturing Engineering program. The list can go on and on.

Beyond the changes, the past decade has also seen the resources of the UW System stretched to the limits. Wisconsin has a proud history of providing affordable higher education that is being challenged more and more each day. A common theme for much of what you have read in this column over the past years has been the need for each of us as Alumni to do something to help fill the widening gap between need and available resources. Probably the most gratifying part of this job has been to see the support you have provided. At other institutions, that may only mean financial support...at Stout, the tradition of going above and beyond continues. In addition to the much needed financial support, Stout Alumni have supported the educational experience in some very creative ways...from the "loaning" of high-tech laboratory equipment, to hosting top business executives on campus for interactive forums. I challenge you to continue to look for the unique ways each of you can help enhance the educational experiences of tomorrow's leaders.

I have enjoyed the past nine years and hope in my own way, I too have provided something of value back to the institution that prepared each of us so well. My sincere thanks to the Alumni Board members that have served with me; the Chancellor's, Robert Swanson and Chuck Sorensen, who have been so very supportive of alumni efforts; the professional and support staff at the Louis Smith Tainter House who truly are the heart of this operation, and who are second to none; and most of all, my wife Ruth, who truly has been "the wind beneath my wings."

3 ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OUTLOOK

ALUMNI DIRECTOR'S COLUMN

Greetings from campus! I have enjoyed hearing from so many members of the UW-Stout family this past year. Our interaction together is what really makes alumni relations great fun. I'm learning so much from you, and it's exciting and rewarding that more and more of you are becoming involved in the life of UW-Stout.

Suzette L. Franks

If we are successful in preparing you well, you will move all over the country; in fact, we find you all over the world. Because of this, it is difficult for many of you to come back to Stout's campus several times each year.

What has impressed me most are the increasing numbers of UW-Stout alumni who are getting together across the country. Not only are you coming back to campus for reunions and special events, but you are enjoying the opportunities for gathering together in your homes and cities far away from UW-Stout's campus.

Kudos to the areas that have gathered. On the Alumni Activities page you will see highlights from groups of alumni and their events from this past summer.

The Alumni Office plans to begin to move to (re)form the UW-Stout Regional Alumni Chapters. A number of you indicated interest in serving as officers or advisory board members through the survey in the Winter 1991 Stout Outlook.

Regional alumni chapters provide many opportunities to become involved with UW-Stout and promote networking among alumni, parents and friends. All regional chapters will provide social interaction and opportunities for increased involvement in support of UW-Stout's efforts in admissions, career planning and placement, and fundraising. Also, active alumni chapters will greatly increase UW-Stout's visibility throughout the country.

We would like to assist you. If you are interested in starting an alumni chapter in your area, please write or give me a call. I will send you an application to establish your chapter for approval by our Alumni Association Board of Directors. The alumni office will provide you with listings of alumni in your area, assist with mailing production and cover mailing costs. Together, we will build an Alumni Association which is national in scope and have great fun sharing in the "UW-Stout Experience."

Thank You to UW-Stout Retirees

The UW-Stout Alumni Association would like to recognize and say thank you to the thirteen faculty and academic staff members who retired in 1991-92. You have been an essential part of our "Stout Experience."

Ray Barlow, associate professor, English (12 years); William Burns, associate professor, physical education and athletics (21 years); Wesley Face, James Huff Stout Professor, education (35 years); Howard Feldman, associate professor, rehabilitation (18 years); Carlyle Gilbertson, professor and program director, counseling and psychological services (23 years); Allen Klink, assistant professor and coordinator for Auxiliary Services

UW-Stout Alumni: Whereabouts Unknown

Finding a former classmate can be just like looking for the proverbial "needle in a haystack." But not anymore. Soon an impressive directory of our great alumni will be available to help you locate your old friends.

The new university of Wisconsin-Stout Alumni Directory, scheduled for release in August/September 1993, will be the most up-to-date and complete reference on over 30,215 University of Wisconsin-Stout alumni ever compiled! This comprehensive volume will include current name, address and phone number, academic data, plus business information (if applicable), bound into a classic, library-quality edition.

The Alumni Association has contracted the prestigious Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc., to produce our directory. Harris will soon begin researching and compiling information to be printed in the directory by mailing a questionnaire to each alumna/us. (If you prefer not to be listed in the directory, please contact the Alumni Office in writing as soon as possible.)

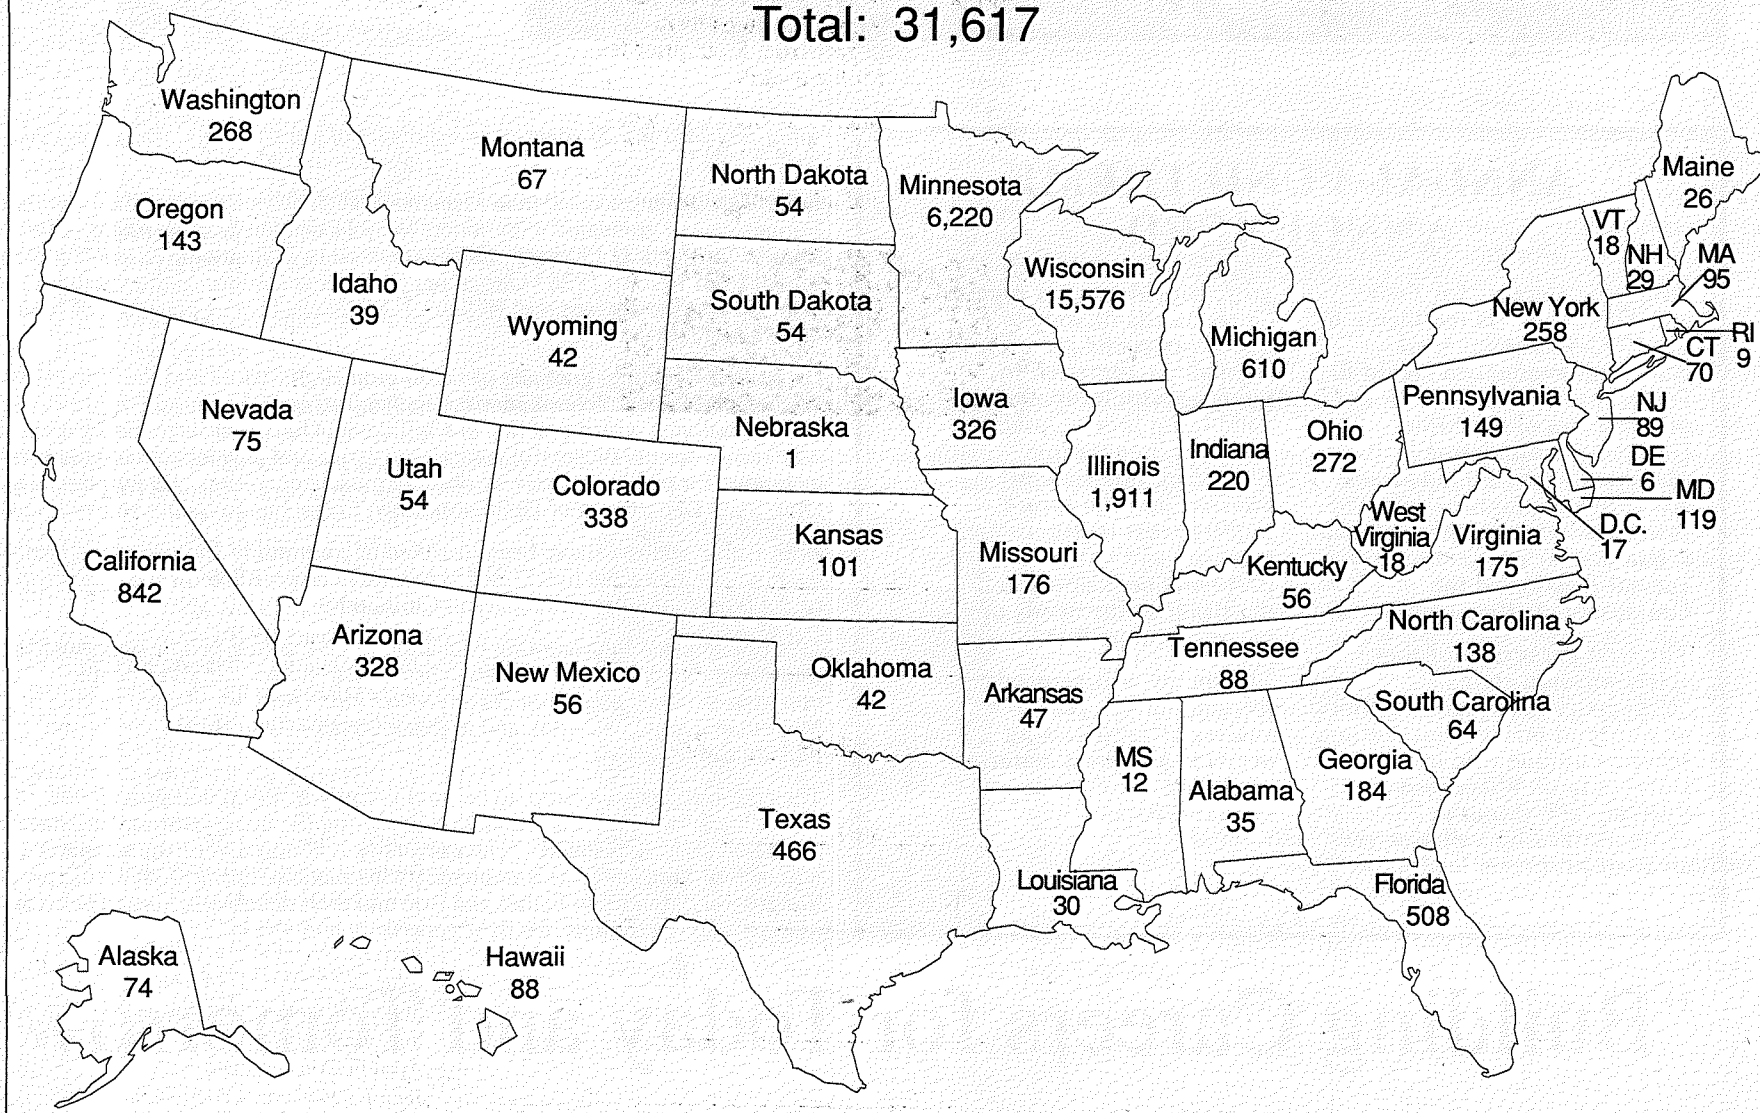

The new University of Wisconsin-Stout Alumni Directory will soon make finding a University of Wisconsin-Stout alumna/us as easy as opening a book. Look for more details on the project in future issues.

Congratulations to the UW-Stout Student Association for receiving the 1990-91 UW Systems President's Award for Student Government. The selection was for its promotion of diversity, its strong orientation to service to students, its active participation in university committees, its ability in teamwork and consensus building and for helping to build strong partnerships with all segments of the university community.

George A. Taft Endowed Manufacturing Engineering Professorship

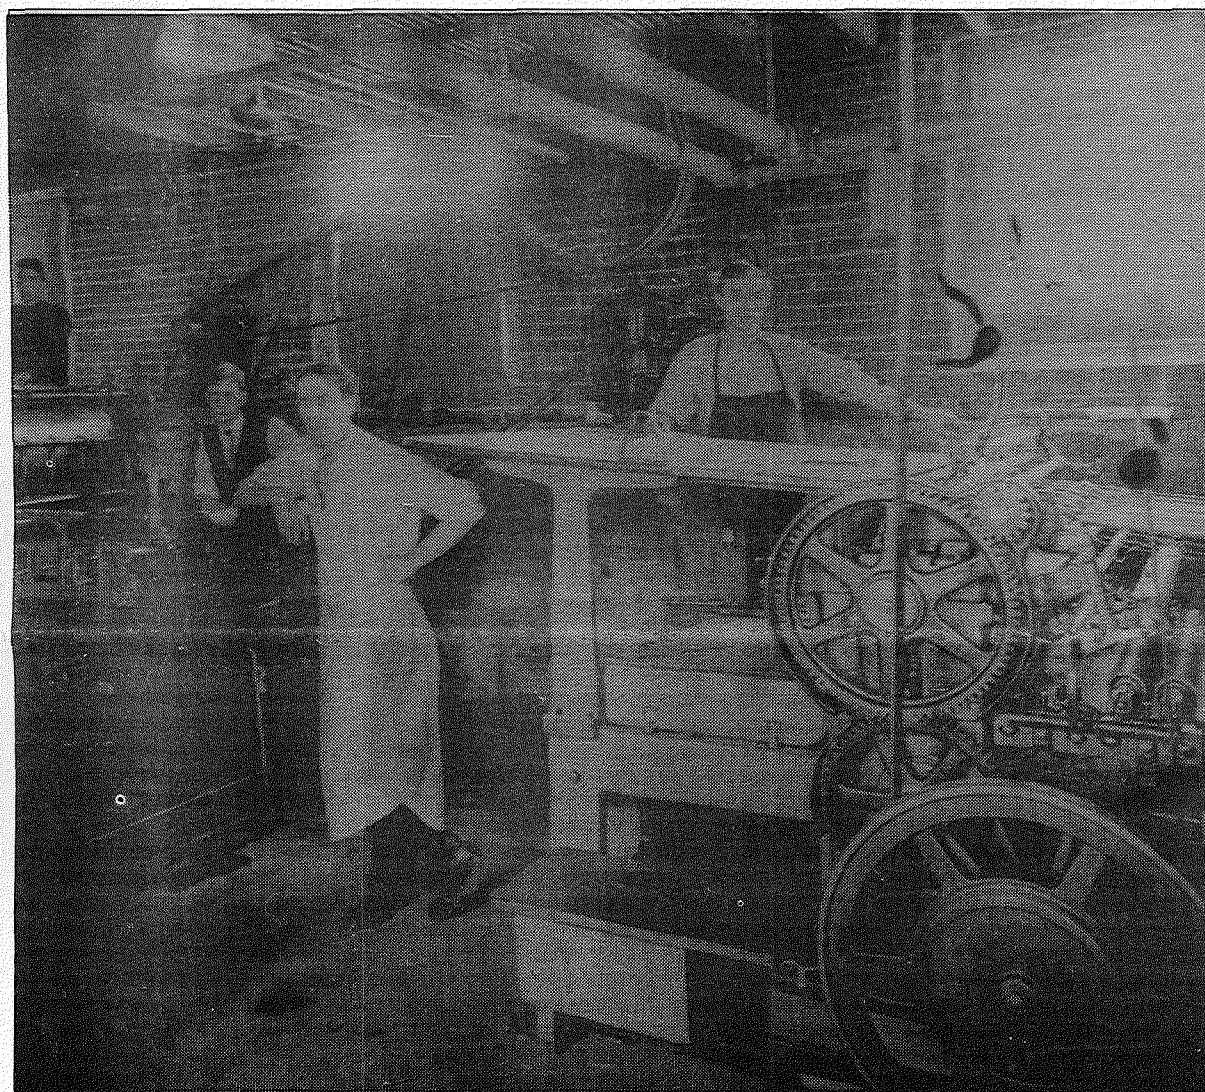

Chancellor Charles W. Sorensen announced July 3 that UW-Stout had received its first million dollar gift. Dr. Robert E. and Esther Taft Quinn, Brookline, Mass., have donated $1 million to the Stout University Foundation to establish the George A. Taft Endowed Manufacturing Engineering Professorship in memory of Esther's father.

George Albert Taft, born in Elkport, Iowa, moved to Barron, Wis., and graduated from Barron High School. His first printing experience, at age 12, was as a "printer's devil" in Chetek, Wis. After high school he owned and ran a newspaper in Spirit Lake, Iowa. He returned to Barron to work as a printer at the Barron Shield newspaper. He married Gertrude Burt who had attended grade school in Menomonie and graduated from Barron High School. W. R. Hotchkiss, owner of the Barron Shield, moved to Menomonie in 1910, purchased the Dunn County News and asked G. A. "Allie" Taft to manage the printing department.

In 1921 Allie Taft joined Hotchkiss' new enterprise in St. Paul, the Deluxe Check Printers. He worked for Deluxe Check Printers Inc. as plant

ANNUAL FUND THEME ANNOUNCED

"Building Careers for Today and Tomorrow" is the theme of the 1992-93 annual fund campaign announced David R. Fesler, president of the Board of Directors of the Stout University Foundation. Members of the Foundation's Executive Committee selected the theme because they felt that it had a clear connection to the special mission of the University of Wisconsin-Stout.

The first paragraph of that select mission states: "University of Wisconsin-Stout, as a special mission institution, serves a unique role in the University of Wisconsin System. UW-Stout is characterized by a distinctive array of programs leading to professional careers focused on the needs of society. These programs are presented through an approach to learning which involves combining theory, practice and experimentation. Extending this special mission into the future requires that instruction, research and public service programs be adapted and modified as the needs of society change."

The theme will be used throughout the year in a variety of fund-raising projects and print materials including the Foundation's annual report.

superintendent for 20 years, was a director of the company, retired in 1941 and died in 1945.

Esther Taft Quinn graduated from Menomonie High School, attended the University of Minnesota and graduated with honors in 1924 with an English major. She taught English for the next 15 years. Esther returned to Menomonie to teach at the high school from 1926 to 1928. One of her students and editor of the yearbook the year she was the advisor was William J. Micheels, former president of Stout State University.

Dr. Robert E. Quinn, graduate of Darlington High School and the University of Wisconsin Medical School, married Esther Taft in 1937. A noted ophthalmologist with a practice in Chillicothe, Ohio, and surrounding areas, he was known for his successful cataract surgeries and developed a unique surgical technique for ptosis, a relatively obscure muscle condition. He led rounds at the Ohio State Department of Ophthalmology, Columbus for many years.

Both Esther and Bob have been involved in community and education initiatives everywhere they have lived. Bob was largely responsible for the establishment of the branch of Ohio University in Chillicothe.

"We're interested in promoting education to give young people opportunities to improve industry and our country," Esther Taft noted. "It gives people opportunities they might not get anywhere else. And, we wanted to give back to Menomonie and UW-Stout, and to thank Senator Stout for his vision and philanthropy."

The endowed professorship, to be used initially in 1993, will provide the university a "way to focus strictly on designing the manufacturing engineering program," Sorensen stated. "The university is honored to be the recipient and will benefit immensely as it implements the manufacturing engineering program. We are truly grateful to Esther and Bob and their daughters, Susan Quinn and Margaret Quinn Simons, for their generosity and vision."

"I was blessed with a burning desire for an education, and I was persistent," he stated. However, it was Maryruth who helped him obtain his dream--that of a university education--with her financial help. He wishes to share Maryruth's generosity with others through the scholarship in her memory. "It was Stout that changed my life, and I want to make a difference in some other student's life," he states.

Special Olympics -- The Other Goodwill Games

For three weeks Dr. John Rynders BS '55, MS '62 and wife, Barbara Brown Rynders '57 were in Hungary at the invitation of the Hungarian Special Olympics Committee.

The trip stemmed from an unusual situation at the 1991 International Special Olympics, held in Minneapolis. Twenty Hungarian athletes with developmental disabilities participated in the event. One of the athletes, Peter, a 23 year-old athlete competing in the tennis event, was observed to have a grotesque facial disfigurement.

Fortunately for Peter, Mrs. Olga Zoltai, Twin Cities hostess for the Hungarian Special Olympics delegation, and Director of the International Institute in St. Paul, immediately grasped the severity of Peter's problem and initiated an action that resulted in an incredible chain of events. First, she contacted a plastic surgeon who specialized in skull and facial reconstruction.

The plastic surgeon, Dr. Bruce Schilling, agreed to perform the surgery at Abbott Northwestern Hospital if Peter and his Hungarian guardians consented to the operation.

A few weeks before surgery, Zoltai contacted Dr. Rynders to assess Peter's psychological status. Rynders supervised Zoltai's administration of the Ravens Progressive Matrices, a nonverbal test that requires the test administrator to use verbal orienting directions of various types.

Following Peter's surgery and his return to Hungary, representatives of the Hungarian Government, as well as several public and private agencies, invited the Zoltais, Schillings and Rynders to visit Hungary.

During this visit Rynders' efforts were concentrated on visiting schools and residential facilities for persons with mental retardation, and talking with special educators and Special Olympics officials. His purpose was to learn first-hand about special education services in Hungary and to offer technical assistance in order to advance those services.

Over the course of the three weeks, Rynders visited two schools, five residential living situations and spoke to several special education faculty members at the University of Budapest, other universities, and with many Special Olympics officials. Throughout the trip the team attempted to promote Peter's future development opportunities wherever possible.

Rynders received his Ph.D. from UW-Madison in 1967 in Educational Psychology. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award in 1981 from UW-Stout. He is well known for his work with individuals with Down's Syndrome. Currently, Rynders is a professor at the University of Minnesota.

Blackhawk Teacher Wins State Honors

Madison State Journal

Shirley Sweet '55 '63 retired at the end of May after a career at Blackhawk Technical College in Janesville that began on a part-time basis in 1959. However, she's not exactly coasting into retirement.

The social sciences, psychology and general education courses teacher was honored by the State Vocational School Board as the state's outstanding technical college teacher.

"It makes one feel very humble when you stand here representing the scores of outstanding teachers in the system," Sweet told the board as she was presented the award.

"At Blackhawk Tech, we aren't the biggest and most glamorous, but we give people in the district their money's worth," she added.

Sweet, who also spent 15 years at Blackhawk Tech as a counselor, started her career as a home economics teacher and also taught evening vocational education courses.

Blackhawk Director James Catania, who nominated her for the award, described her as "mentor, master teacher, innovator."

CHANCELLOR'S COLUMN

Introducing a manufacturing engineering degree program, as we plan to do in 1993, is a bold move that will allow us to explore technology from a new perspective while expanding curriculum and career opportunities for our students.

Charles W. Sorensen

In these changing times, it is no longer sufficient to merely fine-tune the curriculum. On occasion, we must strike out in a new direction. This program allows us to do that while taking advantage of the university's traditional strengths. I view this program as a milestone for UW-Stout and a significant development for the UW System.

In the case of engineering, there is a growing interest in programs that place less emphasis on the theoretical and greater emphasis on application. Traditionally, we do that better than most.

There are only a limited number of undergraduate manufacturing engineering programs in the country—about 12—and none in Wisconsin. Besides serving the needs of our campus, this program will have a positive impact on economic development in our region. It will provide needed engineers who can help make Wisconsin's industry more productive and competitive. UW-Stout already has a significant track record in assisting business and industry, including several state and national awards.

When this program was introduced to the Board of Regents March 6, it had the strong support of industry. We expect that support to grow as the program develops its potential.

A $1 million gift we announced early in July to endow a manufacturing engineering professorship underlines the program's potential to secure outside support. The gift from Robert and Esther Quinn of Brookline, Mass., is the largest ever received by UW-Stout.

A $5 million renovation of Fryklund Hall that is underway will provide model classrooms, laboratories and equipment for manufacturing engineering and other degree programs.

Peter Heimdahl, head of the department of civil and mechanical engineering at West Point, has been named associate dean of the School of Industry and Technology. (See page 10 for more information.)

Throughout the years, UW-Stout has maintained its vitality by staying with its specialized mission while gradually modifying it to meet the changing needs of society. I believe we have met that criteria as we move ahead with manufacturing engineering.

Student Center Goes Smoke Free

On August 25, 1992 the Memorial Student Center on the UW-Stout campus will become a smoke and tobacco free facility. In March of this year the Student Center Advisory Committee unanimously recommended to Robert Johnson, the Center's director, that the student center become smoke and tobacco free. Johnson approved the recommendation and forwarded it through the proper channels until it received final approval from Chancellor Charles Sorensen.

Prior to the committee making their recommendation, the Stout Student Association conducted a random survey of current students. When asked "if the student center was designated as smoke-free would this affect your use of the facility," 78% of the total respondents said no.

The committee based their recommendation on health and clean air issues and established a time table for implementation that would allow sufficient time to properly inform the university community of the policy change. "With all of the data the committee had received on the effects of second hand smoke as it relates to cancer and heart disease, they felt they had no choice but to vote to provide a more healthy environment for all," stated Johnson. Currently student centers at Green Bay, Whitewater, River Falls, LaCrosse and Madison are smoke free facilities.

Construction Students Erect Campus Building

After this summer, seven university students will have a substantial addition to their resumes: construction of a $100,000 building on campus.

The students are enrolled in a construction practicum course. They are erecting the shell of a hexagonal prefabricated building to house restrooms, custodial rooms, and areas for heating and electrical equipment at the north end of the university's athletic field.

The building addresses the university's long-standing need for toilet facilities in the field area that meet code and are accessible for people with disabilities. The design allows more hexagonal modules to be added in the future.

During the four-week course, students worked under the continuous supervision of two instructors from the university's construction program, Hans Timper and James Bjornerud. The project involved erecting the steel frame, assembling the roof and walls from prefabricated panels, installing windows and doors, roofing, and completing some interior work. Plumbing, electrical and concrete work will be completed by outside contractors.

Before the project, the student's experience ranged from participation in small, informal construction projects to journeyman carpenter status. Few had worked with steel, and none had assembled a prefabricated building.

"They wouldn't otherwise have a chance to have experience with this type of construction," said Bjornerud, who is also a journeyman carpenter. "We deal with it in our classes, but there's nothing like actual experience."

Bryan Peterson, a construction major from Wisconsin Rapids, said he welcomed the chance to work with a variety of materials.

"I think the overall experience is going to help," he said. "One day you're doing shingling and the next you're putting up wall panels."

UW-Stout Inducts Four Into Athletic Hall of Fame

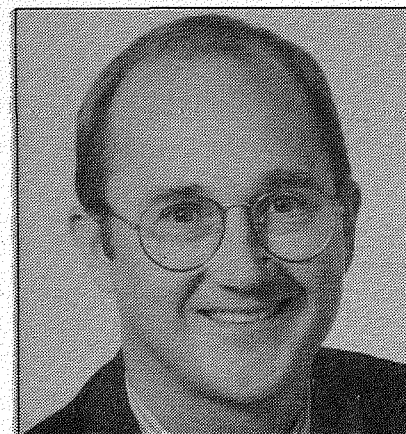

Terry Watkins

Mary Cave Jarvis

Richard Baker

Gary Novak

Two athletes who played key roles in establishing intercollegiate sports programs at University of Wisconsin-Stout are among four who will be inducted into the Blue Devil Hall of Fame at ceremonies Sept. 26.

Terry Watkins, Menomonie, hockey; and Mary Cave Jarvis, Wausau, volleyball and basketball, played on the first intercollegiate teams in their sports. Richard Baker, Port Huron, Mich., a member of the football squad during the early 1960s; and Gary Novak, St. Paul, an outstanding swimmer during the 1970s, will also be inducted.

The recipient of the university's annual "Outstanding Athletic Service" award will be announced at a later date.

Watkins, who now coaches the Blue Devil hockey club squad, was his team's most valuable skater in 1969-70. He captained the Blue Devils from 1969-1972. He is second in all-time career scoring with 95 points and ranks first in career assists with 54.

While the university attempted to build its women's athletic program, Jarvis stood out in both basketball and volleyball. Coaches recall her keen interest in athletics and the skills that set her apart from other participants. Her interest continued following graduation. She went on to begin a women's basketball program at Wausau West

High School in 1975, where she also coached volleyball and track.

Baker lettered in football from 1960-1964, captained the 1963 and 1964 teams and won all-conference honors in both of those years. He overcame a serious knee injury in 1961 which threatened his athletic career. Following surgery, he went on a weight training program to rebuild the injured knee. "His commitment was unbelievable," said Max Sparger, former UW-Stout head football coach, who is now commissioner of the Wisconsin State University Conference. He was "a remarkable young man, to say the least," Sparger said.

Novak, who graduated in 1975, lettered in each of his four years at Stout. He captained the 1974 and 1975 swimming teams. He was selected most valuable swimmer during his senior season. He earned All American honors in multiple events in 1974 and 1975, was a national qualifier in each of his years at Stout and was the conference 200 yard freestyle champ in 1975.

Hall of Fame induction ceremonies will begin with a champagne reception in the Memorial Student Center, at 9:30 a.m. A brunch will follow at 10 a.m.

Tickets are $8.50 and are available by calling the athletic director's office at 715/232-1258.

Stout Professor Named Bush Leadership Fellow

Howard Lee, a professor and associate dean in University of Wisconsin-Stout's School of Industry and Technology, was recently named a 1992 Bush Leadership Fellow by the Bush Foundation, St. Paul, Minn.

Lee competed with other candidates from across the region including Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota in an initial application process and two sets of interviews.

Howard Lee

The Bush Leadership Fellows Program is intended to prepare men and women at midcareer for greater leadership roles. Lee indicated that he was interested in studying management theory with application to the university setting.

The Bush Foundation will provide a stipend, tuition and travel reimbursement up to $12,000.

Lee studied university management at the Carnegie Mellon University's College of Management Program for three weeks this summer. The program is intended for academic leaders to apply modern management concepts and techniques; to improve curriculum design and academic service; to examine political, economic, technological, legal and ethical issues; and to use computers for administrative tasks, Lee said.

Lee is completing his sixth year at UW-Stout. He was program director for the master of science degree in vocational education, and education specialist degree in industrial and vocational education for three years before being appointed associate dean. He teaches task analysis, introduction to research, and other vocational education courses. Lee has also been active in several projects in the Center for Vocational, Technical and Adult Education, and has worked closely with the Wisconsin Vocational Technical Colleges.

Associate Dean of SIT Appointed

Peter Heimdahl, head of the department of civil and mechanical engineering at West Point, has been named associate dean of the School of Industry and Technology. Heimdahl is a U.S. Army colonel and professor at the United States Military Academy. He has been at West Point for more than 20 years.

Peter Heimdahl

Heimdahl has a Ph.D. and a master's degree in theoretical and applied mechanics from the University of Illinois; and a bachelor's degree in engineering from the U.S. Military Academy. "Dr. Heimdahl has the right background and experience that the school was looking for," said Bruce Siebold, dean of the school. "His experience in engineering accreditation requirements and curriculum development will prove to be a great asset to Stout as we begin our new manufacturing engineering program."

Searle Receives National Research Award

Gary Searle, a professor of marketing education, has received a national award for a research project on the benefits of student participation in chapters of the Distributive Education Club of America. Searle, was presented with the Lester B. Sanders Award at the Marketing Education National Research Conference held recently at The University of West Florida, Appalachicola.

Gary Searle

The first stage of the project was completed in 1989 through surveys of state DECA officers. The second project was completed in 1990 and used Wisconsin DECA local officers.

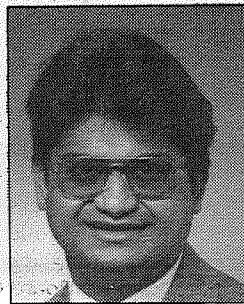

The third project, completed in 1991, involved 12 senior marketing education classes in Minnesota and Wisconsin high schools.

"All studies attempted to identify and measure specific areas of personal and professional growth experienced by officers and members," Searle said. "Respondents in each study, more strongly than anticipated, agreed that they received benefits in the areas of leadership development, vocational understanding, social intelligence and civic consciousness." He added that those officers who were surveyed indicated that they would definitely seek a DECA office again, and chapter members highly recommended DECA involvement.

The conference in Appalachicola was designed to provide teacher educators with opportunities to present research, publish and learn new research methods. Stout will host this conference in 1994.

Disability Awareness Award Presented

Peter D'Souza, instructor in the Department of Hospitality and Tourism, is this year's recipient of the university's Disability Awareness Award.

Peter D'Souza

The purpose of this award is to honor a faculty/staff member who has shown sensitivity to the unique needs of students with disabilities. This is a teacher who has been willing to make appropriate accommodations so that students with disabilities have an equal opportunity in the classroom. This is a significant honor in that it is the students with disabilities who provide the nominations.

D'Souza has been at Stout since 1985 and teaches classes in the culinary arts and restaurant operations management. He has won numerous culinary awards and medals throughout the United States, including a bronze medal as a member of the U.S. delegation at the International Culinary Olympics in Frankfurt, Germany. He has had a number of articles published in professional publications and has given numerous presentations and special programs.

Voc Rehab Lab Designs Bike/Wheelchair Trailer

This summer, an 8-year-old boy with a severe mobility impairment is able to enjoy bicycle rides because of a bike trailer designed by the university's Center for Rehabilitation Technology.

More than a year ago, Dustin Sabby's mother, Lori, asked the center's staff to find a trailer that would allow Dustin to go for a bike ride in his wheelchair. He's a growing boy, and Lori knew that she was going to be less and less able to transfer him from his wheelchair to a conventional bike trailer. She was also concerned that if the two stopped along the bike route, she either had to leave Dustin in the trailer or carry him.

Rehabilitation technician, Jim Hubbard, was intrigued by the request. "Here we advocate that recreation is a major part of a family's needs," he said. The center provides vocational rehabilitation students with experience finding adaptive devices to meet the needs of people with disabilities.

In Dustin's case, the staff first researched to find a suitable bicycle trailer, or a trailer that could be adapted for his use. They soon realized that they were going to have to design something new. The result is a 60-pound, two-wheel trailer with a platform that can be easily lowered to the ground, to allow the wheelchair to be loaded and unloaded safely. It sounds simple. Yet the project included several design problems that were not so easy to solve.

Hubbard and others invented a locking latch system to stabilize the platform, because nothing appropriate was available on the market. The hitch is strong, yet allows the towing bicycle to be removed from the trailer quickly and easily. The design allows one person to safely load or unload the wheelchair, a process Lori said takes about five minutes. "Whatever the reason for the bicycle trip, to go visiting, or get groceries, or simply for recreation, the bicycle and trailer is then independent of the wheelchair mobility needs of the child," Hubbard said.

Lori and Dustin waited a long time for the trailer. After a summer and autumn of beautiful weather, they were scheduled for a "test drive" last Halloween. Lori was looking forward to at least a few weeks of bike riding before cold weather set in. "Winter came to this town on Halloween day," Hubbard said.

So the trailer sat in the lab all winter. Hubbard used the months of cold weather to analyze the design and make small improvements. After Lori and Dustin use the trailer for a season, he'd like to take another look at the design. But for now, the trailer is doing what it was designed to do--and that's more than just support a wheelchair. "It has given me a sense of freedom, while including my son in an activity my daughter and I enjoy," Lori said. "It's an activity we can now do as a complete family."

School of Home Economics Expanding Education-Industry Partnerships and Excellence in Service

Greetings Alumni and Friends!

The School of Home Economics held the first meeting of its newly formed Advisory Board and officially opened the Wisconsin Center for the Service Industries on May 4, 1992. This historic and festive occasion marked the beginning of new partnerships and enhanced the capacity for the school to meet the educational needs of the rapidly growing service economy.

We are excited about the many unique opportunities of working with a most distinguished Advisory Board. The Board is composed of 12 top executives from leading industries and agencies related to the broad range of academic programs offered by our school (see attached photo). Karen Johnson, chair of the Board, worked very closely with us in forming the Board and developing its shared vision. The mission of the Board is to provide industry, government and university collaboration in developing and implementing a focused strategy for the school to plan its future as a leader in higher education and to prepare graduates to meet the current and future needs of the work force. Such collaboration is perhaps more important now than ever before given the global economy and the many unprecedented social, economic, demographic and technological shifts in our society. These shifts influence expectations, the infrastructure required to achieve goals and the ultimate quality of both higher education and the labor force.

The Board will serve as advisory on programs and curricula, will foster an understanding of common concerns of education and the work place for mutually beneficial outcomes, and will contribute to quality improvement of programs, instructional resources and facilities.

The opening of the Wisconsin Center for the Service Industries culminated several years of facilities planning to meet academic program needs for the service industries. Our building was designated as the site for the Center by the Wisconsin Legislature in 1987. The Center includes state-of-the-art facilities for student learning experiences in specialized laboratories such as food processing, sensory evaluation, apparel manufacturing, visual merchandising, restaurant operations and tourism. A multitiered classroom provides an optimum environment for teaching and

UW-Stout Professor to Attend Summer Institute at Bryn Mawr

Sue Stephenson, professor and assistant director of the Counseling Center, was selected to participate in the 17th annual Summer Institute for Women in Higher Education Administration held on the campus of Bryn Mawr College June 28 through July 24.

Sue Stephenson

Sponsored jointly by Bryn Mawr and Higher Education Resource Services, Mid-America, the Institute gives participants exposure to top national educational leaders. Curriculum is designed to prepare participants to work with issues currently facing higher education, with emphasis on the growing diversity of the student body and the work force.

The purpose of the institute is to improve the status of women in middle and executive levels of higher education administration where women traditionally have been underrepresented.

Participants are provided skills and information about the management and governance of colleges and universities; perspectives on teaching, research and service; and the environment in which to identify and promote career goals.

Stephenson was nominated for the institute by UW-Stout Chancellor Charles W. Sorensen. She said the institute provided her with an opportunity to interact with educators from throughout the country while providing a post-doctoral education experience that would normally require a year's commitment.

Stephenson is past chair of the Faculty Senate and serves on numerous campus committees.

North Campus Construction of Overpass and New Bridge Continues

Changes on north campus will be awaiting the students return in late August. The main goal of all the construction is to provide a four-lane facility linked to the two two-lane bridges that will be there. "It's obviously intended to speed traffic and reduce congestion," said John Enger, coordinator of news services and associated director of university relations.

The work involves total reconstruction of the roadway including new water main, concrete pavement, curb and gutter. A new pedestrian plaza will be completed over the highway between 1st Ave. and 3rd Ave. This plaza will allow UW-Stout students and pedestrians to cross the highway safely without interfering with the traffic flow on Broadway.

Work began in April before the students' departure for the summer and the overpass portion must be completed by August 19. The bridge construction will be completed sometime in mid-September.

For the overpass work, the grade of the road has been lowered in order to level the hill; this will allow the overpass to be level with the residence halls. This overpass will provide free pass movement for students. Another critical factor involved is that the overpass carries utilities across the road. While the road is lower, utility lines have been removed. The new overpass will carry the steam and electrical lines.

The highway reconstruction project is estimated at 1.9 million dollars. The overpass costs are estimated to be $502,580. Half of the cost is paid for by the State Department of Transportation, one-fourth is paid for by the city and the remaining one-fourth is paid by the university through residence hall operations.

The Disabilities Awareness Award was originally made possible through support and assistance of the Stout University Foundation and is administered through the Office of Students with Disabilities, Student Support Services.

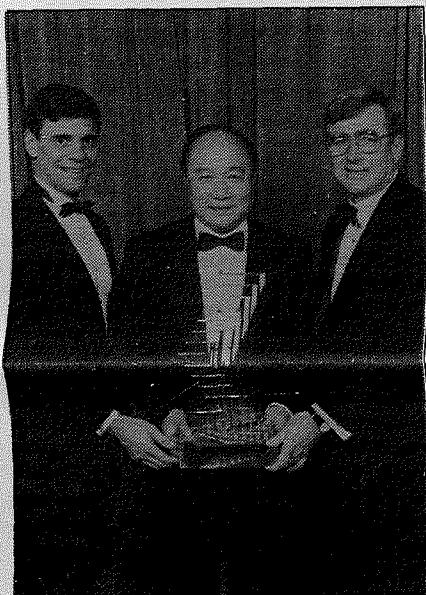

Currently there are over 364 students with disabilities attending Stout.
